TRAIN CHANGE IS DISCUSSED

WABASH TO RESTORE NIGHT SERVICE WEST, SAYS RUMOR.

MAY ADD DINER ALSO

Maryville No Longer to Be Terminal for Nos. 12 and 3 Under Purported Plan.

Changes in the Wabash railway schedule that would give Maryville an evening train to the west and a later morning train to the east are being discussed, with some usually well informed persons predicting that the changes will be made in the next thirty days.

In their present form, the rumors call for a return to practically the same arrangement as existed before the Wabash made Maryville a terminal for trains No. 12 and 3. The former now arrives here at 7:40 p. m., remains over night and returns east as No. 3 at 6:50 o'clock the next morning. The contemplated change, it is said, would have No. 3 continue west to Omaha instead of stopping here, and the morning train east, as a result, would be started from Omaha and arrive here later than at present. It would run to Moberly, instead of Brunswick.

The speculation also includes better equipment on trains No. 12 and 3. A dining car may be added to both trains, eliminating the long stops at Stanberry for the serving of meals as at present.

At the present time there is no evening Wabash train from Maryville to Burlington Junction and other points between here and Omaha, and no morning train from the west. At present persons coming here from the west by train must come at night and return at 6 o'clock the next morning. If they wish to transact business by day, they must come at night, remain the next day and return the second morning.

The prospective change in schedule also would improve mail service. No definite information, however, has been received by the Wabash representatives here.

The Burlington Junction Post this week carries the following regarding the proposed change:

"Although there has been no official notice coming from officials of the road, it is pretty generally talked that the Wabash is soon to put back into service the two trains on this division which they discontinued several months ago, when the through Omaha-St. Louis trains were put on. Rumors are to the effect that the trains will be running again within thirty days.

"It is said that receipts from ticket sales since the trains have been discontinued have been only a fraction of what they were before, and that the through train service has not been a paying proposition.

"Burlington Junction will certainly welcome the change back to the old schedule, for passenger and mail service on the Wabash has been very unsatisfactory since the change."

Oil Well to Be Given "Rest" Until Monday

Swabbing Is Completed, but Officials Cannot Tell Whether Oil Will Come Back.

Oil well No. 2 of the Quitman Gas and Oil Company, located nine and a half miles northwest of Maryville, is to be given "a rest," for three days, or until Monday.

Swabbing of the well was completed yesterday by the contractor, George Rose says, and all of the water now has been bailed out. The officials of the oil company are waiting now to see if the oil, which showed with the water at the 1302 and 1332-foot depths and then was forced back under pressure while drilling was continued to a 1400-foot depth, will come back.

It was stated the company is awaiting developments before making any attempt to "shoot" the well.

TO ENTERTAIN FOR TRIPPERS

FRIED CHICKEN DINNER, THEN DANCE AT COUNTRY CLUB.

85 TICKETS ARE SOLD

Women of Methodist Church Will Serve Dinner; Kansas City Party Bring Orchestra.

Arrangements are being made for entertaining the 125 Kansas City business men who will be here Tuesday on the Good Fellowship tour of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, Miss Catherine Tobin, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said today.

The trippers will be entertained here at a fried chicken dinner and a dance at the Country Club. The dust laden Goodfellowship tourists are expected to arrive at 6 p. m. Tuesday from Burlington Junction.

They will go to the First M. E. Church where the dinner will be served by the women of the church. Eighty-five tickets have been sold to local business men, according to W. J. Montgomery, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and W. N. Deatherage, the other member of the committee for the sale of tickets.

The Kansas City men are bringing their own orchestra, and it will furnish music for the dance at the Country Club. Maryville business men are invited to attend the dance, but requested "to keep off the floor," Mr. Montgomery said.

He said that College women would be given permission to attend the dance.

Arrangements have been made at the two hotels for the trippers, who will remain here Tuesday night, before resuming their five-day tour through north Missouri.

NOTEBOOKS TO THREE JUDGES

FIVE BEST VITALIZED AG PROJECTS TO BE CHOSEN.

ENTRIES NUMBER 28

After Elimination Here Tomorrow, Final Selection Will Be Made Elsewhere.

Twenty-eight entries in the fourth annual vitalized agriculture notebook contest are to be judged tomorrow at the State Teachers College, it was announced today by A. H. Cooper of the College faculty, director of the contest.

The judges will choose the five best notebooks of the twenty-eight entered. These five books will be sent somewhere else, probably to Jefferson City, where they will be passed upon again and the final winner selected.

The judges for the contest are Miss Gertrude Fulcher, a principal in a Jefferson City school, formerly a county superintendent of schools and a student of vitalized agriculture; Miss Harriett Schumann, of David City, Neb., a rural teacher of vitalized agriculture, and Ross Fleetwood, Nodaway county farm agent. The prizes will be announced later.

Mr. Cooper said that there were not quite so many books entered this year as might be expected, "but," he explained, "several counties have conducted county contests, and only the winning books have been entered in the contest here."

The first prize of $100 in gold has been given each year by C. J. Colden of Los Angeles, Cal., a former editor and business man of Maryville, who has been interested in the vitalized agriculture work for a good many years. The second prize will be "The Book of Rural Life," valued at $79.50, and is given by C. D. Bellows and Sons, prominent Shorthorn breeders of Nodaway county.

1926 Prize To Bogard.

The first prize last years was won by Elmo William Miller of Bogard and second prize of $50 offered by the Farmers Trust Co., was won by Margaret Courtney of Jameson. John F. Case, editor of the Missouri Ruralist, and president of the State Board of Agriculture, was final judge of the notebooks last year and came to Maryville to make the awards in person. This year the winning students will be asked to come to Maryville to receive their prizes.

The rules for the contests this year are similar to those of the past. The contest has been open to pupils regularly enrolled in one-room country schools, who have not completed the eighth grade. The books were to contain sections on geography, agriculture, health, arithmetic, home economics, English, art, and spelling, all to be done in practical projects. Among these was to be a survey of the livestock in the pupil's district, an interview with the owner of the best livestock farm in the district as to kind of feed, cost per head, etc. The home economics features included a hot lunch menu and a page on good table manners. The English, art, and spelling grading is to be used on the general use of these in the whole book.

DOUG, MARY'S ESTATE UNDER HEAVY GUARD

Discovery Made of Alleged Plot to Kidnap Film Actress—Press Agents Say "Pipe Dream."

Beverly Hills, Cal., June 17.—Pickfair, the estate of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, was under heavy guard today with the discovery of what is believed to have been a plot to kidnap the actress for ransom.

Armed with sawed-off shotguns, a police guard kept an all-night watch at the home of the two stars as the result of information supplied to the police by H. L. Brady, following Miss Pickford's first street location in five years.

Brady told of overhearing two men talking of the proposed plot, while watching Miss Pickford filming scenes for her current picture, a romance of the 5 and 10 cent stores.

Police Chief Blair of the Beverly Hills station told the United Press today that the informant of the plot, Brady, was not known to the police. But they were not concerned with the authenticity of the report other than preventing possible harm to Miss Pickford or Fairbanks.

The press representative for the two stars said that he believed the whole thing was a "pipe dream."

THE TOURIST PARK OPENED

MARYVILLE NOW IS READY TO RECEIVE VISITORS.

A CARETAKER NAMED

Caleb F. Childress to Be on Job Until Midnight—Will Keep Register of All Campers.

The Maryville Tourist Park, on the grounds west of the State Teachers College, was opened this week, Clun Price, a Chamber of Commerce director, announced today.

Mr. Price said that water was turned on at the camp today and the electric lights were connected yesterday. He expected a telephone wild be installed in the next few days.

Caleb F. Childress, night watchman at the College, has been named caretaker of the Tourist Park. He will be around the camp until midnight each night, Mr. Price announced.

In order to get an accurate check on the tourists using the camp, Mr. Childress will be in charge of the register, and will get the names of all persons using the camp each evening.

Several tourists have made use of the camp this year, but not in numbers comparing with former years. This has been attributed to the rainy season to date, but the number of tourists coming through is expected to increase as the summer progresses.

All tourists are invited to make use of the Maryville Tourist Camp and take advantage of the facilities offered on the College grounds. A large brick stove at the camp is now in condition for cooking and free water is at hand for the visitors.

Says Girl Plotted Fire to Wreck Home

Conrad Stark Changes Story and Absolves Dead Brother of Burning Sedalia Home.

Kansas City, June 17.—While hospital authorities barely managed to keep him alive, Conrad Stark today changed his story of the burning of the home of G. S. Copas in Sedalia, Mo., and accused Velma Copas, his sweetheart, of making arrangements for the fire which wrecked the house, burned Stark severely and cost the life of his brother, Elmer, who was burned to death in the fire.

Stark had previously accused Velma Harris with plotting to destroy the home, which was heavily insured.

Stark said the girl made all arrangements for the family to be away Wednesday night, when the house was wrecked. He insisted his brother was not implicated.

Velma Copas told him Stark said, that her father had the house plastered with gasoline and that all he would have to do would be to touch a match to it.

"We didn't expect an explosion. We believed there would just be a fire," Stark said.

Mrs. W. W. Randall went to Bolckow this morning to spend the day with her father.

COOLIDGE IS CAUGHT IN A HAIL STORM

President Enroute to Game Lodge When Storm Breaks.—Cripples Telephone Communication.

Rapid City, S. D., June 17.—A thundering hail with stones as big as golf balls, which fell on Rapid City this afternoon, caught President Coolidge en route to the state game lodge by automobile.

The storm blew down telephone lines between Rapid City and the lodge and officials were unable to communicate with the summer white house.

Horses of cowpunchers along the road stampeded and could not be controlled. The storm lasted about ten minutes and when it was over the President proceeded in the closed car in which he was riding.

This morning President Coolidge transacted the business of the nation at a pine schoolmaster's desk in the high school building here. He greeted delegations of citizens from nearby towns and held his newspaper conference in accordance with his Washington custom.

ARMY TO TRY PACIFIC HOP

PLAN IS REVEALED FOR NON-STOP FLIGHT TO HAWAII.

EN ROUTE TO COAST

Lieutenant Maitland, Holder of Speed Record, to Be Pilot—Depends on the Weather.

Washington, June 17.—The army is about to seek new flying laurels, a non-stop flight from the Pacific coast to Hawaii will be undertaken as soon as weather permits.

The flight will be in charge of Lieutenant Maitland of Milwaukee, who will probably have as his passenger A. N. Hegenberger. They are now en route to the Pacific coast in a big Fokker plane.

The plan for the flight, hitherto kept secret, was revealed today.

Maitland, who broke the flying speed record in March, 1923, is an assistant in the office of Assistant Secretary of War Davison, Army air chief.

Orders To Be Withheld.

Official Army orders for the flight will be withheld until shortly before the take-off, to prevent embarrassment to the Army if present plans have to be altered or if Maitland is forced to wait several weeks for good weather.

Until formal orders have been issued authorizing the flight, the official status of the flight is that of "testing equipment duty."

While wating for favorable weather conditions, Maitland will carry out official tests of special flying equipment. The flight when authorized, however, will be an official United States Army enterprise and not a competition flight.

Dallas, Tex., June 17.—Lieutenant Maitland and four army officers accompanying him from Dayton, Ohio, to the Pacific coast, landed here this afternoon.

Byrd's Start Delayed.

LINDY AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

COL. LINDBERGH REPORTED FLYING NEAR ST. LOUIS.

BIG CROWD ON HAND

Officials Fail To Discourage Large Gathering For Homecoming Of Atlantic Flier.

Altmont, Ill., June 17.—The Spirit of St. Louis, carrying Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, followed by an escort of thirty planes, passed over here at 2:24 this afternoon.

Ahead Of Schedule.

St. Louis, June 17.—Despite efforts of officers to discourage a large gathering, an increasing crowd was braving the drizzling rain this afternoon to witness the homecoming of Charles A. Lindbergh.

Lindbergh was expected to arrive about 4 o'clock but he was flying far ahead of schedule, and at 2:15 was over Effingham, Ill., about 100 miles from this city.

The field had the appearance of an army encampment as some 13,000 regular Army and National Guard troops were on hand.

A Parade Tomorrow.

The first big official event in honor of the homecoming here will be the parade Saturday morning. Motorcycle and mounted police, soldiers from Jefferson Barracks and numerous civic organizations will make up the line of march. Twelve trumpeters will precede the motor car bearing Colonel Lindbergh and Mayor Victor Miller. Government officials, invited guests and members of the reception committee will follow.

Colonel Lindbergh is expected to appear Saturday afternoon at Sportsman's Park to witness the baseball game getwee the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants.

To Address Crowd.

The formal dinner in the flier's honor Saturday night at the Hotel Chase will take up the space of three dining rooms. While definite plans for the ceremonies on Art Hill are not ready to be announced, it has been suggested that "The Spirit of St. Louis" be placed on a barge in the lagoon at the foot of Art Hill so that it may be viewed by the thousands who will be present. Colonel Lindbergh will address the crowd from the foot of the hill.

Railroad passenger officials have estimated that more than 100,000 visitors from outside of St. Louis will come to the city for the celebration. The anticipation influx of out-of-town persons is expected to constitute the largest volume of inbound passengers traffic ever handled by the trunk lines entering St. Louis. Virtually all railroads entering the city have put reduced rates into effect.

Radio a Challenge to Every Minister

The Invention Benefits Church By Demanding Better Sermons, Bethany Minister Asserts.

Characterizing the radio as "a challenge to ministers," the Rev. Clyde S. Sherman, pastor of the Christian Church at Bethany, recently pronounced the invention as in fact a benefit rather than a handicap to the church.

"The radio is a challenge to me and to every minister in a pulpit this morning," he said according to the Bethany Clipper's report of his sermon. "It tells me I must prepare a better sermon for every service, or the people will stay at home and listen to a radio sermon." By broadcasting services, the church is reaching many who were untouched before, he added.

The minister said every scientific fact ever discovered has some bearing on religion and the church. Although at first many of these scientific facts are looked upon as evils, most of them actually are found to be of benefit, he asserted.

Saved From Drowning by Efforts of Son

William Hockridge of Bethany was saved from probable death by drowning Thursday when he succumbed to an attack of dizzines and fell into a deep hole of water along a branch on a farm occupied by his son, Dave, near Blue Ridge.

Members of the Hockridge families were out gathering gooseberries, when William Hockridge started to walk across the small creek. There was no water at the spot where he was crossing, but at one side of his path lay a pool which was shoulder deep. As he walked beside the pool, he stumbled and fell in it. Two or three times he managed to regain his feet, but each time fell and was submerged, before he was reached by his son to be helped out. Dave Hockridge brought his father and mother back to town, although his father then believed he was recovered. He has had high blood pressure for some time.—Bethany Republican.

PLAN HOW TO TAME RIVER

MISSISSIPPI CONTROL WORK TO START SHOON.

BILLS BEING FRAMED

Robinson Measure Proposes Storage Reservoirs.—More Money To Be Needed For Relief.

Washington, June 17.—The job of muzzling the mighty Mississippi River to prevent another billion-dollar flood disaster will start in a modest way here, perhaps within a few weeks, and assuredly before winter has set in.

Congressional leaders, in co-operation with government and other engineers, already have begun preparation of various flood control projects, in the forms of bills for submission to Congress. These measures will probably be laid before committees of Congress soon for unofficial approval, in the hope that the discussions will lead to development of a measure which can be enacted speedily.

President Coolidge and the heads of all parties and factions in Congress seem agreed upon necessity of undertaking at once a great engineering project to restrain the great river from a repetition of the disaster which spread devastation over six rich States along its path this year.

Special Session Opposed.

The President was indifferent to requests for a special session of Congress for flood relief legislation, on the ground that the Red Cross, with its great fund of more than $15,000,000 in public subscriptions, was meeting the immediate needs of the half-million or more homeless persons in the flood area. A plan for flood control in the future will have to be prepared before Congress can adopt it, administration leaders pointed out.

Mr. Coolidge, however, recognizes the need of flood control, and is planning to make a recommendation for immediate action.

The two committees of congress which will perfect the necessary legislation already have started unofficial preparation for their job. The chairmen and many members of the senate commerce committee and the house flood control committee have toured the flood area from St. Louis, Mo., and Memphis, Tenn., southward to New Orleans, to determine the extent of the catastrophe and possible remedial and preventable measures.

Committee Meetings Urged.

Senator Robinson, Arkansas, Democratic floor leader, has urged the two committee chairmen and other leaders to have the committees meet as soon as possible to consider and agree upon a measure. Robinson offered a measure drafted on a recent trip to Washington as a basis for starting work. A decision on Robinson's request is expected soon, although Speaker of the House Longworth, Ohio, pointed out that all house committees passed out of existence on last March 4. The senate committees, however, hold over to some extent, although any meeting by the commerce committee would not have an official status during the recess.

Robinson's proposal, the only one to be put into bill form so far, provides for a flood control project through development of storage reservoirs along the upper Mississippi and its tributaries, creation of spillways or diversion channels to remove the high waters below the mouth of the Ohio river near Cairo, Ill., and straightening and broadening of the river channel mostly by strengthening of the present levee system—below the mouth of the Ohio.

The measure also would appropriate $100,000,000 for the work, which would be conducted and administered by the present Mississippi river commission. This commission would also be given jurisdiction over the tributaries of the great river, as well as the river itself. It would be given full power to repair and construct such public works as it found necessary under the provisions of the act, but with directions to report to congress on its operations and further recommendations.

Other Bills Expected.

In addition to this, present conditions indicate that bills will be proposed to further the relief and rehabilitation work. Much of the money loaned for farm purposes by the state finance corporations created with the aid of the federal intermediate credit banks, on President Coolidge's direction, will not be repaid if crops are not fully developed this year, and more money may be necessary to restore economic conditions under which the river-valley land dwellers can live.

Middle western representatives are expected to be especially interested in the rehabilitation work, because of the loss in markets for their states' products caused by the impoverishment of a half-million persons along the lower river valley.

Robinson said that $1,000,000,000 is a conservative estimate of the total damage done by the flood, which is the greatest disaster in property damage in the history of the nation. Others estimated the damage as high as $2,000,000,000.

Mrs. H. A. Sawyers returned to her home in St. Joseph yesterday after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Karl Zimmerman, and family, and other relatives.

Claim for $566.63 Is Filed by Ed Godsey

Former Depositor of Real Estate Bank Says He Should Have Had Credit On Note.

A claim for $566.63, alleged to have been a trust fund, has been filed by Ed T. Godsey against the assets of the Real Estate Bank, which was closed May 13, 1926.

The petition, filed with the circuit clerk yesterday, states that on May 12, 1926, and prior thereto, he had deposited with the bank this amount, which was to have been credited for payment on a $1,000 note he had executed to the Bank, payable May 18, 1926, but which was never credited and is now in the assets of the bank as a trust fund.

Mr. Godsey contends that he is entitled to this money as on August 24, 1926, at the request of the Tootle-Lacy National Bank of St. Joseph, he was forced to pay this note in full under duress and threat that suit would be filed unless paid, as his note had been assigned to the St. Joseph bank as collateral.

The plaintiff states that he filed a claim with E. C. Curfman, deputy finance commissioner, in charge of the Real Estate bank, for $566.63, and it was approved as a common claim.

He believes he has a right to recover the money in full and that he is in no wise limited by any provisions of law relating to the filing of claims inasmuch as the money represented is a trust fund which cannot be administered or used by the bank or defendants in payment of claims of credit of the bank, but is held for the sole use and benefit of the plaintiff.

He asks that the court direct the commissioner of finance to pay the $566.63.

Rosendale, Bolckow Fail to Get on Road

Highway Commission Announces No Changes Will Be Made On Route 71 To Maryville.

At the hearing Tuesday at Jefferson City of the Missouri State Highway Commission, the committee asking for Highway 71 to be placed on the Rosendale and Bolckow road instead of the Maryville or Bennet Lane Road, were told, "There are no changes to be made now. Highway 71 remains established and this report is final," unless the right of way cannot be secured.

The highway commision assured the committee that the report of the survey, and the east finding data by the engineers during the months of May and June, had not been reported on yet, and there was no reason why they should change last spring's approval of the Maryville Road at this time.

The following were present at the hearing from Andrew county: Attorney K. D. Cross, Judge J. H. Dorrel of Rosendale, Tom Wagers of King City, A. R. Seleeman and Frank Roberts of Rea, W. L. Dysart of Savannah; Hon. T. F. Montgomery of Bolckow, and A. C. Yoder of Rosendale.—Savannah Reporter.

This and That

Alphonso and Gaston.

Easily the most astounding motor event of 1926 occurred in one of the year's traffic jams, says Motor Magazine.

Two cars collided with damaging effect on both, but the drivers were unhurt. One man jumped to the street and declared that he was entirely to blame for the accident and apologized profusely. But the second driver protested vigorously.

"This one is on me," was the retort.

Whereupon history was made.—Exchange.

Two rival colored colleges in the South were fighting their annual football battle. The teams were even and the play got rather hot. At length one quarterback tossed his helmet aside.

"Shure, Oi've saved meself, and now Oi'h am going back for Mike."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

What Nodaway County Churches Are Doing

VISITORS AND HOME FOLKS

Comment on the Uniform International Sunday School Lesson for June 19, 1927.
Read 1 Peter 2.

Wm. Southern, Jr.

When we are off on a visit we are always on our good behavior. In a strange land we are always careful to give no offense and violate no law. The stranger is usually given a welcome, but let the stranger rub up against some of our pet ideas or sneer at our customs and we are not very much pleased.

This is one of the big reasons for the hatred of Americans in France and the almost riots which were reported in the newspapers. American tourists of a kind sneered at the French, bragged about winning the war, and even went so far as to paste the paper franc on their baggage to show contempt for the money of the country. Of course the French resented this and and the disturbances followed.

In his letter to the churches of Asia Minor, written when he was an old man in Rome, Peter announced the doctrine that we are merely sojourners and pilgrims here, that this life is not home at all, but a place where we are preparing for home, an anteroom only. He argued that as this was the case we ought to behave ourselves and to pay less attention to the things which seem attractive here, that they really did not matter at all because we were only going to be here a little while.

Edwin Markham, poet, who wrote "The Man With The Hoe" and "Lincoln," says that the spiritual begins where science leaves off and that the poet deals in the spiritual things. He claims that to be a poet one must have imagination and inspiration because the poet goes into realms where the cold, hard, scientific fact has no place. The spiritual, following his argument, is not the intellectual, but the heart, the feelings, love and hope, with the intellectual.

In this country we get twisted values. Our men wear themselves out to get money. Our women wear themselves out in social affairs. When some speaker talks about spiritual affairs we do not understand at all. it is a strange language. We know about the pleasures of the senses. We indulge in eating and drinking and physical pleasures until they cease to be pleasure.

In the not far future we lose this body and with it lose every so called pleasure many of us have known. I often think how lonesome in heaven will be the man or woman who has never known the joy of spiritual pleasure here. The old man who is worn out and responds no longer to the pleasures of the young, may still revel in great music, in great thoughts, in communion with great minds, thinking in terms of eternity.

From the very beginnings Christianity has taught obedience to law. Jesus many times delivered the lesson, Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's. A Christian community is a law abiding community. A Christian is a law abiding citizen.

A score of years after the death of Jesus his disciples preached this doctrine under the most adverse circumstances. Paul taught obedience to the secular laws and appealed to his Roman citizenship. Peter became the leader of the church and in his letter to the churches of Asia Minor, when a tyrant was on the throne and when Christians were subjected to scorn and brutality because of their religion, Peter counseled law obedience as a natural part of the duty of a Christian. The letter we know as 1 Peter and was probably written in Rome some years before the death of Peter.

There were many Gentiles in these churches. They had no religious training as had the Jews. It was a day when greed, dishonesty, hatred, and every variety of immorality prevailed. In those days when a Gentile was converted and became a Christian he had a hard job ahead of him. It was indeed a new doctrine when he was taught not to indulge in the orgies in which everybody else indulged.

Word had come to Peter in Rome that men and women were misbehaving in the Christian churches. They were living just as wickedly as those about them who were not Christians. Peter wrote this remarkable letter and sent copies of it to the churches to be read to the members. It was so fine that the manuscript was preserved, copies made from the original and copies made from the copies, until when the New Testament was compiled the letter became one of its precious books.

PETER TEACHES GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

(Temperance Lesson)

1 Peter 2: 11-17; 4: 1-5

1 Peter 2:11. Beloved, I beseech you as sojourners and pilgrims, to abstain from fleshy lusts, which war against the soul;

12. having your behavior seemly among the Gentiles; that, wherein they speak against you as evil-doers, they may by your good works, which they behold, glorify God in the day of visitation.

13. Be subject to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether to the king, as supreme;

14. or unto governors, as sent by him for vengeance on evil-doers and for praise to them that do well.

15. For so is the will of God, that by well-doing ye should put to silence the ignorance of foolish men:

16. as free, and not using your freedom for a cloak of wickedness, but as bondservants of God.

17. Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king.

4: 1. Forasmuch then as Christ suffered in the flesh, arm ye yourselves also with the same mind; for he that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin;

2. that ye no longer should live the rest of your time in the flesh to the lusts of men, but to the will of God.

3. For the time may suffice to have wrought the desire of the Gentiles, and to have walked in lasciviousness, lusts, winebibbings, revellings, carousings, and abominable idolatries:

4. wherein they think it strange that ye run not with them into the same excess of riot, speaking evil of you;

5. who shall give an account of him that is ready to judge the living and the dead.

6. For unto this end was the gospel preached even to the dead, that they might be judged indeed according to men in the flesh, but live according to God in the spirit.

Golden Text.—Love worketh no ill to his neighbor.—Rom. 13: 10.

(Text is from the American Standard Edition of the Revised Bible copyright, 1901, by Thomas Nelson & Sons, and used by permission.)

Fourth of July speeches seem to have gone out of style, but I think they should be revived. No better fourth of July speech could be made than will be found in this letter written by Peter to the Christians of the first century. Only a few changes in words will be necessary. It would read like this,

"Obey every law of man for your own sake and for the sake of your country and your freedom, whether it be the law against adultery or drunkenness or putting our dirty literature. Have respect for your officals whom you have elected, whether they belong to your own political party or not. Honor your President, your governors and even your city councils. For this is a part of good citizenship and good Christians are good citizens. By doing this you will put to silence the ignorance of foolish men; you are free and should not use your freedom for a cloak to wickedness. Love your country and believe in God."

If every man and woman whose name is on the roll of a Christian church in this United States, should from this moment themselves obey the laws, respect the constituted authority and insist on law enforcement there would be no question of nullification of the eighteenth amendment, there would never be a question of patriotism.

This nation would respond with such a glory of prosperity and happiness that sordid poverty would disappear and we would soon be able to understand that there are far greater joys to be had than the pleasure of pandering to our senses, than the fun of making a night of it.

If Christians would live according to their profession, as Old Peter nearly two thousand years ago suggested, there would be no question about nullification and the political platforms which will be made next year would be almost copied from Peter's great letter.

"God's Twin Laws" Is Musgrave's Theme

Pictures of Churches in Southwest District To Be Shown At Night.

In spite of rain and bad roads last Sunday was a good day at the First Christian Church. The picture at night was especially well pleasing and enjoyed by a very fine audience.

Sermon theme for next Sunday morning will be, "God's Twin Laws". This may be a new subject to many and will be carefully and prayerfully submitted for your consideration. We wish that every member of the church might be present. A congregation, individually and collectively, votes "yes" or "no" upon every sermon preached, but no one can vote either way unless he be present. Will you not make a special effort to be present next Sunday.

At the night service we will show a goodly number of pictures taken of our churches and scenes relative to our work in the Ozark or South West District of Missouri. These pictures were taken by our District Superintendent, Bro. J. H. Jones "The Shepherd of the Hills" among us as a people, and they have become famous all over the state, having been shown in many places. The entire evening will be taken up with these pictures. Any one who has been in the Ozark region cannot stay away from these pictures and every one else will want to see them. The public is invited and a warm welcome awaits you at the door. Come, bring your family and your friends.

SWAN CHAPEL

Everyone is urged to be present at our Sunday School at 10 a. m.

Immediately following Sunday School will be the sermon on "Christian Life-long Loyalty, Its Foundation, Its Incentive and Its Reward." An intrinsic part of this service will be the invitation and appeal for a public confession of Christ as a personal Savior, associated with the closing hymn.

DRAMATIC EVENTS IN BIBLE HISTORY : : By Harlowe R. Hoyt and Walter Scott

The Epistles of Peter

When the first church council was held in Jerusalem, Peter was one of those who attended, together with Paul and Barnabas, and others from the church at Antioch. It was Peters advocacy of admission of Gentiles to the church that did much to settle the question.
In later years, Peter travelled through the regions of Asia Minor, accompanied by his wife. There he spread the gospel until, at last, he turned to make his home in Rome.
Peter wrote two epistles to the Christians of Asia Minor, where he had ministered. Both of these were written during his Roman residence, and the second was penned shortly before his martyrdom.

CHAPTER LVIII

It was a few minutes after eight when a wild-eyed, white-faced young man sprang from a shivering flivver befort it had completely stopped and ran fleetly up the long path to the front door of the Curtis mansion.

"Where's my father, Sawyers?" Clay Curtis demanded, panting for breath.

"In the library, Mr. Clay. He hasn't had any dinner, sir. I wish you would try to persuade him to eat something".

But Clay pushed past him without an answer, almost running through the music room to the library.

"Dad! Where's Billy. What happened to her?" he demanded.

"Why, Clay, son, I'm glad to see you!" T. Q. Curtis rose and held out his hand to his son.

"Where's Billy, Dad? What have you done to her?" Clay ignored his father's greeting.

"She's left the house, son. How did you know that anything had happened to her? She's perfectly well, she left of her own accord, over my appeal to her to stay—to stay always—"

"Then what did Winnie Shelton mean by telephoning me that Billy was in great danger and that I was to come here at once?" Clay demanded hotly.

"I think you'd better sit down a moment, son, and let me tell you what has happened here today. I'll be as brief as possible, but I insist upon your listening to me."

Clay did not sit down, but stood leaning against the desk, his hands gripping the edge of it. While his father rapidly sketched the events of the day, not glossing over his own folly, Clay's hot, angry young eyes never left T. Q.'s face.

"So Billy turned you down!" Clay cried out exultingly when his father had finished. "Thank God for that! But what did Winnie Shelton mean by that message of hers—that Billy is in danger?"

"Didn't Billy go home to her mother?" T. Q.'s voice betrayed his alarm.

"No. I've been at home since six. I think we'd better put a few questions to Miss Winnie Shelton," Clay decided grimly. "Just to be on the safe side where that hard-boiled baby is concerned, we'd better ask Mrs. Meadows to go to her room with us. You've still got her under lock and key?"

"I thought it best to have her keep to her room until tomorrow." T. Q. pressed a button on his desk and almost immediately Sawyers answered. "Please ask Mrs. Meadows to join me at once in Miss Shelton's room, Sawyers."

As T. Q. fitted the key into the lock of Winnie's door, Mrs. Meadows came hurrying from her own room, summoned by Sawyers on the house telephone.

Winnie was pacing up and down the room, Her small white teeth were biting savagely at the knuckles of one clenched fist, and her beautiful little pink and white face was distorted with fury.

"I thought that message would bring you on the run!" She whirled upon Clay, ignoring T. Q. and Mrs. Meadows.

"What did you mean?" Clay seized her arm and shook her. "Where's Billy?"

"Less than forty-five minutes ago she was in Dal Romaine's apartment, helping him to pack his suitcase to elope with him"

"Where is Romaine's apartment?"

"You don't think they'll be there now, do you?" Winnie asked sarcastically.

"So that's what she meant when she said she had other plans for her life," T. Q. said dazedly. "My God! If she'd only confided in me—"

"You forget, Mr. Curtis, that Dal Romaine is my nephew!" Mrs. Meadows interrupted haughtily.

"I'm forgetting nothing, Mrs. Meadows," T. Q. caught her up sternly.. "I never trusted the fireign-looking devil, and now the girl who is dearer to me than any other person in the world except my son is running away with him to marry him—"

"Marry him!" Winnie's ugly laugh barked. "If I know that bird he won't marry her until she's legally adopted by T. Q. Curtis, the multi-millionaire!"

"What do you mean, Winnie Shelton!" Clay's grip on her arm tightened.

"Let me go, or I'll die before I'll tell you how to get on their trail," she panted. "Now! I'll tell you all I know about this dark-skinned bird with the gypsy blood in his veins," she taunted them and herself bitterly. "But you've got to listen while I'm in the humor to talk. His fine lady-aunt here"—and her finger pointed dramatically at Mrs. Meadows, who went deathly pale—"sent for her grand little nephew as soon as she settled down in the lap of luxury and got the lay of the land."

"Mr. Curtis, I protest! I will not stay and be insulted—" Mrs. Meadows began majestically.

"You would pull that line, wouldn't you?" Winnie flicked her whip of scorn at the trembling woman. "No, you stay here or I'll shut up and let precious little Billy be ruined by the man she's run after so hard for a year."

"Go on, Winnie!" T. Q. commanded her sternly.

"I'm tryingg to, ain't I? Soon as this dark-skinned bird blew into town I sized him up, but I fell for him, too. But he didn't have me fooled for one little minute! I called his bluff inside of two weeks after we came to live here. He admitted to me that he was a penniless adventurer, that his aunt was staking him to an apartment and a car, and paying his laundry bills, while he sponged off you, T. Q., for most of his meals. His aunt put him wise that you were going to pick out a daughter as soon as you'd made up your mind which of the three of us you liked best, and Handsome Harry decided to play the game three ways to win. He got himself engaged to both Billy and me, but she, poor sap, thought she was the only frog in the puddle. I knew I didn't have a chance if I didn't win the contest—"

Clay loosened his grip on Winnie's arm and swayed against his father. The old man put his arm about the boy, but his eyes did not leave Winnie's distorted face.

"And before he'd wasted too much effort on Nyda Lomax he found she'd been married all the time to Eddie Danning. His precious aunt helped him to snoop out that nice bit of scandal, and Eddie gave the works away himself at a dance at the Country Club. Oh I knew him like my A-B-C's all the time, but I was crazy in love with him, just the same! I even helped him in some of his other little side grafts. I steered trade to his modiste shop, that he run under the name of Madame Dubois. And I helped him get the dope on the high society muckety-mucks for his Hindu fakir, Namir Sadh—"

"So Romaine was Sadh's accomplice!" T. Q. groaned. "Truman was right, but for Mrs. Meadows' sake I wouldn't let myself believe him!"

"This is all an infamous lie, and I'll sue for slander!" Mrs. Meadows panted.

"You'll be lucky if you get out of this thing with a shred of reputation left!" Winnie spat at her viciously.

"Why are you telling us all this—about a man you say you love?" Clay demanded.

"Why? Why? Because I'd rather see him dead than married to anyone else!" Winnie screamed. "When Clara brought up my dinner I bribed her to take a note to Dal. I wrote him that I needed his help, begged him to get me out of this, to take me away from Colfax, and he sent me back word that there was 'no answer!' 'No answer!'" she shrilled. "I'd kill him if I could! 'No answer'—after all I've meant to Dal Romaine. Why," she went on, reckless in her furry, "I've spent two week-ends with him at his cabin in the country, and a week with him in Chicago, when Billy didn't even know where he was! I'd have cut off my right hand for him, crook though I know him to be—and then he won't even lift a finger to help me when I'm down and out!" Her fury spent itself suddenly and she began to sob.

In spite of his disgust and rage, Clay's face softened a bit at sight of her tears. 'Where is Billy? Where will he take her?"

"I won't tell!" Then—"Yes, I will! He shan't have her! He thinks he can compromise her and then force T. Q. to let him marry her, after the adoption goes through. Oh, I know him! I told you I'd spent two week-ends with him at his cabin in the country. He'll take her there. It's eleven miles from here, out past Clifton. Turn off the main road about three miles from Clifton—its' a left turn, dirt road. The log cabin is about a quarter of a mile from the main road. You can't miss it. And I hope you kill him!"

Clay did not give her his promise in words, but his face, as he turned upon his father, was terrible to see.

"I'm going after them, Dad, and I'll bring Billy back—but not to you! I'm going to take her to her mother, and I'll marry her if she'll have me. God knows I love her enough to marry her, no matter what that brown-skinned devil has done to her. As for you, Dad, I hope you realize what your selfish folly has done—made a thief of Nyda Lomax, turned this poor, saiveling little hypocrite"—his eyes seared Winnie Shelton with hatred and contempt—"into a cheap crook, stripped her of her virtue and thrown her back upon the world, a menace to decent people. As for Billy, you've undermined her character with luxury and made her easy prey for the first black-hearted adventurer that came along. Three girls ruined. All for your own selfish pleasure because you were lonely! And you did it in the name of philanthropy! Philanthropy! My God!"

He flung out of the room, his furious young face contorted with an effort to keep back tears. T. Q. Curtis, whose head had bowed low under the indictment of his son, did not look up when Mrs. Meadows rustled out of the room, banging the door behind her.

Oddly enough it was Winnie who tried to comfort the broken old man. She touched him diffidently on the shoulder, spoke the sincerest words she had uttered to him during the whole year: "I—I'm sorry, Mr. Curtis. You're a good man and I don't blame you for hating me. I hate myself!"

Dal Romaine reveals his intentions to Billy, and she recognizes him, too late, for the man he is.

Dial Twister Helps

The reallocation of broadcast wave-lengths, an almost complete shifting, by the Radio Commission, has made almost valueless the carefully kept logs of dial readings by radio fans. In an effort to help out the dial twisting addicts, the United Press has compiled a list of the most important stations, each with its own wave length and the call letters of the station which formerly used that particular frequency. The radio fan who wants to find where WTAM, Cleveland, will now come in on his receiving set will be greatly helped by referring to the chart and discovering that it will come in approximately where WHAS, Louisville, used to be found.

Burlington Junction

(By J. Howard Thompson)

This community was visited by another hard rain Saturday morning, soaking the ground to the depth of several inches. The growing crops were in need of rain, and the moisture will be of untold value to them.

George Chambers, living in the north part of town, who has been sick for some time but is better now. He is 70 years of age. His son from Savannah is here helping to care for him.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Miller entertained at their home last week, Lynn Alderman of Stanton, Neb. Mr. Alderman and Mrs. Miller are cousins.

Sunday night, June 26, is to be special night at the Methodist Church. Miss Alma Corken of St. Joseph, a reader of ability, will have charge, and read a sacred reading instead of the preaching by the pastor. Others taking part in the service will be Miss Mildred Charlene Williams and Miss Iola Graves. Special music will be a feature.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. Howard Thompson expect to start on their vacation Sunday night, July 10. They will go to the mountains, by way of Villisca, and will visit Colorado Springs, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and the Yosemite Valley. They will be gone three or four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Boyer were host and hostess to Mrs. W. W. Wood, of Bridgewater, Ia., from Sunday of last week until Tuesday. It is the first time they had seen each other for many years.

The Rev. G. B. and Mrs. Draper of Maitland, started last Monday morning on a vacation of four or five weeks through Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Illinois. They have a son at Lake Forest, Ill., who is pastor of the First Methodist Church there. The Rev. Mr. Draper has been in Burlington Junction often and is well known here.

George Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Carpenter, was playing with gun powder while burning trash near their home, which exploded near where George was standing, and as a result he is nursing a badly burned hand.

The Children's Day Program that was to have been given last Sunday morning, was postponed on account of rain, and will be given next Sunday morning. The church service will be dismissed next Sunday night on account of the children's day program to be given at the Christian church.

The items in this issue and for next Saturday will be somewhat limited, on account of the writer being out of town. He will be in Cameron for ten days. However, he will be on hand again next week as usual.

Farm work of every description will be delayed for a few days again on account of the excessive rains of the past few days. The farmers were beginning to catch up with their work, but now they will be considerably retarded again. Corn is looking good in most fields and with a chance will produce a good crop.

The Rev. J. Howard Thompson left Sunday night for Ridgeway where Monday he christened the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William Chilton. From Ridgeway he went to Cameron for ten days to attend the summer school of theology. He will be home, however, for the morning service next Sunday morning.

All services in town were poorly attended last Sunday morning on account of the down-pour of rain just at the time of the morning hour.

Burlington Junction is gettign to be a great shipping center. Scarcely a day goes by that there is not a car of hogs, cattle, sheep, implements or something is being either shipped out or shipped in. We have it in our power to make our community one of the very best in all the country. Let us boost for every good that can accrue to the town's interest. We need a state highway completed, a new school building, more paved streets, a tourist park and other attractions that will put us on the map in a very fine way.

Herschel Houston, traveling salesman for a cream separator company, received a congratulatory telegram from the Head-quarters of his company a few days ago commending him for his splendid salesmanship. He is one of tive salesmen to turn in the largest volume of business for the firm.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Linebaugh had as recent guests in their home in the east part of town, their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Max Garratt, of Braddyville, Ia. The small daughter of the Garrett's had been here for some time prior to the visit, and on their return home she returned with her parents.

The Rev. J. Howard Thompson is in Cameron this week attending the sessions of the summer school of theology. He will return home Saturday night for his services Sunday morning, but will return to Cameron, for the balance of the school which willl close June 23. The Rev. C. C. James is the dean of the school, and the Rev. Thompson is the registrar.

Mrs. Marie Bever, who owns the home immediately across the street from the Methodist Church has recently rented it to Mr. and Mrs. Merle Britton and family of Maryville. Mr. Brittian is salesman for the Fuller Brush Company, and will now have his headquarters in Burlington Junction instead of Maryville.

Miss Pauline Walker, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Charles Walker, is in Oklahoma City, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Allen. Mrs. Allen is an aunt of Miss Walker, and formerly lived here.

The Rev. J. Howard Thompson was called to Barnard last Sunday afternoon to conduct the funeral services of Mrs. Larrabee. Mr. Thompson had been a friend of the family for many years, he having lived in the Barnard Community for years as pastor of the Church. The burial was in the Barnard Cemetery.

Burlington Junction is represented in the Conservatory of Music at Maryville for the summer term by Mildred Sevens, Edwina Harrison, and Margarett Jean Houston.

Maimie, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rich Harriett, is nursing a sore foot as a result of piercing it with a nail a few days ago.

George Chamberlain, William Jones, J. A. Barr, and Mrs. Ellis, are the sick of our town and community at this time. Mr. Chamberlain had a light stroke a few days ago, which has incapacitated him for the time being; William Jones has been sick for a year or more with severe prostatic trouble, and J. A. Barr is troubled with gravel, and Mrs. Ellis has been confined to her room for more than two years, with trouble incident to old age.

The public sale of the household goods of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Jones, which was to have been held Saturday, was postponed on account of rain and was held Monday night instead. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, with their two children, Kenneth and Dorothy, left by auto Wednesday morning for Compton, Cal., where they will make their home.

The Standard Oil Company [Indiana] was a pioneer in developing gasoline and oil for aviation use. Today it furnishes a major part of the supply for airplanes in this country.

Red Crown Ethyl is on the land what Stanolind Aviation Gasoline is in the air. Motorists throughout the Middle West have discovered that Red Crown Ethyl gives amazing performance. Prospects for Dairy and Beef Cattle Good Decline Of 16 Per Cent, Numerically, Over 17 Western States Since 1920 Is Reported.

Lincoln, Neb., June 17.—Cattle have declined 16 per cent numerically over seventeen western states since 1920 and 16.5 per cent for the entire antion according to statement recently released by the United States division of Livestock and crop statistics.

The downward trend showed no sign of stopping in 1926. In the same seven-year period, however, milk cows increased in numbers approximately 16 per cent in seven western states and about 11 per cent in seventeen western states. This section showed a much greater increase than the country as a whole which figure was an increase of 2 per cent.

The report declared the prospects for both dairy and meat producing cattle is very favorable at the present time.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, June 17.—After opening firm and advancing during early trade, wheat ran into a heavy profit taking and broke sharply, with prices sinking considerably under yesterday's close.

The cash demand was slow with prices steady to ½ cent lower.

Corn was firm at the start and went up 2 cents. Later the market crashed to about 2 cents below the previous close, due to tremendous profit taking. The cash market was steady to 1 cent lower.

Oats sagged with other grains in a dull and featureless market. The cash market was unchanged.

Provisions were dull and inclined to weakness.

Child's Death Caused by Injuries at Play

Injuries received several weeks ago while at play with other children are believed to have been the primary cause for the death of Gretchen June Goucher, 11 years old, daughter of Ben Goucher of Bethany. She first was sick with peritonitis, and died Sunday, of pneumonia, after seeming to make a partial recovery.

The hurts which first caused her to be confined to her home came from a rope which she twisted about her waist, as other children were tugging and pulling at it.—Bethany Republican.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Annie Kwinski of 526 1st Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes that she became so weak and run-down that she was not able to do her housework. She saw the name Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and said to her husband, "I will try that medicine and see if it will help me." She says she took six bottles and is feeling much better.

Mrs. Mattie Adams, who lives in Downing Street, Brewton, Ala., writes as follows: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and since taking it I feel like a different woman."

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grand-children, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women past fifty, say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

PRINTERS AND BANKERS WILL CLASH TODAY

Financiers Combine Teams To Tackle Baseball Experts From The Democrat-Forum.

The greatest baseball game in the history of Maryville will be enacted on the College field at 5 o'clock this afternoon. It will be the greatest in many aspects because at this time the combined Maryville Bankers teams will clash with the Maryville printers.

John McGraw Curnutt announced this morning that the banks will lock the safes and steel cages in time for eleven expert fly chasers and heavy stick wielders to don mud cleats and shinny trousers in time to start the encounter at 5 p. m. He announced that either Pete Jones, Red Graham, or some other person, not a banker or printer, will be on hand to do the officiating.

Connie Mack Pete Todd revealed that his star hurler, Roy Arthur, linotype speedster, will be on the mound to represent the mechanical force while Fred Stalling Van Cleve gave out a tentative list of sluggers from the editorial and advertising departments. Pete Todd will assume duties behind the bat for the printers. Manager Curnutt said that in all probability the loan department force of the bankers, in the person of Forrest Gillam, would start the hurling for the bankers, to be replaced, in case of necessity, (which is probable), by M. S. ("Bud") Hamilton, of the "receiving department."

All parties, interested or otherwise, will find soft grass seats on the side lines to witness the epoch making game.

Mr. Curnutt said the following would try to be in shape for the struggle, but he could not vouch for the positions:

Raymond Groves, Dick Davis, V. E. Bird, Forrest Gillam, M. S. Hamilton, R. T. Curnutt, Ernest Ellis, L. L. Gray, L. F. Bosch, Arch Frank, and W. N. Deatherage.

The printer's line-up will include Seleeman, Mapel, VanCleve, Studer, Johnstone, Krause, Todd (W. S.) Roy Arthur, Barrett, Cummins, Fred Masters, Bill Masters, C. M. Woods, John James ("Shorty") Kennedy, Stanfield, Monk, Crockett and Raymond Arthur.

In case there are not too many casualties a vivid account of the game will be given in tomorrow's issue.

Young Golfers Sets Record at Albany

Maryville golfers will be interested to know that Paul Martin, sensational young golfer from Trenton, set a new course record at Albany lately when he shot that course in 31, or two strokes under par. The former record was a 33, held by H. L. Crookshank. Martin followed up the 31 by turning in a 35, for a 66 for the 18 holes. It is probable he will enter the coming state tournament. He is only 19 years old but holds a number of course records.

Martin was the runner-up in the golf tournament held here in 1926 in connection with the annual high school contests sponsored by the State Teachers College.

Why Is "Lindy," America's Idol? Here Are a Few of the Reasons

Washington, June 17.—After two days at Lindbergh's feet, the capitol rubbed its eyes and began asking, "how does he do it?"

Blase Washington has seen so many of the world's great and would-be great come and go without losing its heart to any, why should this boy throw every one from the president on down into an unprecedented frenzy of adulation?

Here are some of the answers heard on the street:

Because he is in real life what Valentino was in the movies and more, having courage enough for an army and good looks enough for a half dozen Hollywood heads—and yet apparently interested in no woman except his mother.

Because he was a dark horse, winning the race while the world had been watching favorites and getting a bit fed up on hopes that never got higher than the headlines.

Because he was a great ambassador, turning European hatred and distrust of "Shylock America," into friendship for a youthful and heroic country of which Lindbergh is now supposed to be typical.

Because American public, without knowing it, was really tired of gunmen heroes and sex queens and wanted to idolize virtue for a change.

Because Lindbergh symbolizes the post war generation which may find its romance and conquest in peace.

Because he is from Minnesota, according to that states boosters; because he is an airmail pilot, according to Postmaster-General New; because he learned to fly at a military field, according to army officers.

Or—Because of his mother—if one can judge by the demonstration when they appear together.

The one person who might be expected to explain the mystery of the hero's unparalleled popularity, can't do it. For Lindy is still apparently pinching himself, wondering when he is going to wake up.

Graham Youth Fined for Having No Lights

Rock Port Claims the Meanest Thief

J. C. ("Jawn") Stapel, editor of the Atchison County Mail, who is being boomed for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state, says that the meanest thief has been discovered in the person or persons who have been taking flowers from graves in Green Hill Cemetery at Rock Port.

The Mail said: "Several graves on which both plants and cut flowers have lately been placed have been despoiled of these flowers shortly after the graves had been decorated. There may be thieves of lower standing than the one who will do this, but they haven't been found."

Mrs. Ira Young of King City is visiting her husband, who is in school at the State Teachers College here. Mrs. Young was formerly Miss Fannie Blackloek.

William Potts and son of Burlington Junction visited in Maryville today.
